

I have not attempted to coordinate this staff study nor have I given copies of it to anyone.

In the past the principle which I propose, i.e. that administrative components assume action responsibility for certain types of communications, has been very strongly opposed.

Unless you agree with this principle, there really isn't very much point to referring the study elsewhere or of having the Management Staff undertake the proposed detailed study.

Remarks: Please require the Management Staff to make the study you recommend. I believe there is a prima facie case for your principle.
